my role: creative, concept, copywriting, UX, production, photographic editing, illustration, technology

Acupuncture Clinic
business website for an acupuncturist goals: build a website to showcase and drive business to Acupuncture Clinic in Dublin.

features: landing page, about page, information about the kinds of treatments available, contact page with locations and opening hours.

my role: production, photography, photographic editing, UX, design, creative, technology.

Port Pictures

website for an Irish production company goals: they require a re-design to modernise their website.

features: about section, photography & video galleries, contact information and interactivity.

my role: production, photographic editing, UX, design, creative, technology.

Captain James Kelly
memorial website for Irish historical figure goals: to create a website to act as an information hub about the man, his life and his history.

features: still in discussion. But the site will definitely require pages for information and galleries. For ease of updating by the site owner it will probably be built with a CMS.
