Port Pictures

Port Pictures is one of Ireland's leading film & TV production companies.

Their lead producer Martina Niland has produced hit Irish films & tv series such as ONCE, Sing Street & The Young Offenders among many others.

- GOAL -

To create a slick new website that showcases this production company

- FEATURES -

Landing page with general information about the company, a production page with details of everything they've produced to date. A page of information for prospective investors/co-producers and contact details.

- MY ROLE -

Creative concept, UX, photography, editing, design, SEO & technology.

- THE HOMEPAGE -

As yet undesigned, but the mood is sleek, filmic, modern and arty. Whitespace and a feeling of space in general will be maximised. Think modern art gallery for film production.

- TYPOGRAPHY -

Still undecided but initial ideas are below, there will be a focus on clean minimalist sans-serif fonts and clean lines.

- COLOUR PALETTE -

The colour palette for this project is as yet undecided, but early indications are for lots of bright contrasting tones.

- PRODUCTION PORTFOLIO -

The production portfolio page is of the utmost importance as it will showcase the essence of this business. The website will make excellent use of many of the large professionally designed film and television posters available.

Perhaps showcasing them through a grid style layout with clickable links to further information about each production.

- SCRIPT SUBMISSION -

There will also be a script submission feature, that will be password protected, for solicited script submissions by new and current screenwriters.
